WHISKEY MEN

"Heartily in Favor of Temperance," So They Say.

At Louisville the National Protective Association, in its first circular letter to the whiskey trade relative to the defense the distillers and dealers expect to make for their business, says:

To the Trade: It is very evident that those restless spirits who ever indulge the natural but illusive hope to

"Compound for sins they are inclined to

By damning those (often so-called sins) they have no mind to,"

are particularly active at the present in their efforts to suppress by law all traffic in various sections of the country in alcoholic stimulants.

The time has come when prompt and united action is demanded in order to show the fallacy of the Prohibition movement against the liquor trade, both from an economic and moral standpoint. In doing this we proclaim ourselves as being heartily in favor of temperance, which is always a virtue, but we protest against any confusion in similarity of the meaning of temperance and of enforced abstinence, which are as antipodal to each other as the North Pole is from the South, or as light from darkness.

We believe that God created man a free agent, and individually responsible; that He gave him the world and the good things thereof to enjoy, but never to abuse.

We further believe that it is as inconsistent with God's plan in creating man for one class of men, who cannot enjoy His blessings without abusing them, to assume that because of their weakness they must force all others to deny themselves the use of any article that such cannot enjoy, as it would be for those who are strong enough to enjoy God's blessings, to force others who are too weak for such enjoyment to use them. Therefore, we believe it to be our duty, not only in defense of our business, but in defense of our good names and of civil and religious liberty, to use our utmost efforts to convince the public of the utter inconsistency, fallacy and immorality of any effort to suppress the legitimate traffic in alcoholic stimulants.

Such an effort on the part of Prohibitionists we believe to be thoroughly contrary to the inherent rights of man, which cannot be eradicated by any law that man can make, and which is so revolting to every intelligent and worthy citizen that when he lives in a section under Prohibition law he is often compelled to elect between violating the law and thereby losing his self respect, or submitting to it, with a sense of humiliation that must make him a contemner of the law. Therefore, in order to contribute what we can toward the defeat of Prohibition laws in the United States, a movement has been started in this city to organize nationally in defense of our principles, and we hope you will lend the movement your cordial support.

According to a treasury report there is no such thing as a burglar proof safe. A new chemical compound, known as thermite, when mixed with magnesium powder, will destroy the hardness of metal and enable a burglar to cut through it with ordinary tools. All professional burglars know this and it is well for others to know it too. Safe robbers were never so numerous as now and there must be some protection beside the safe itself.

Rises to the occasion—yeast.

THE SCRIBBLER
Wise and Otherwise—Mostly Otherwise.

If you don't like a man let him alone; don't abuse him to others. If you do he will hear of it and talk back. You will thus make your self a lot of unnecessary trouble. It is natural to dislike some people, but it is unnatural and unnecessary to quarrel with them. Let them alone.

A burglar who had entered a minister's house at night was disturbed by the awakening of the occupant of the room he was in. Drawing his knife he said: "If you stir you're a dead man. I am hunting for money." "Let me get up and strike a light," said the minister, "and I'll hunt with you."—The Optimist.

The fair sex will register a kick against the device which enables one to see the person talking at the other end of the telephone. There will be a general scurrying every time the bell rings, but perhaps another genius will introduce a patent screen so they can't be observed; otherwise they will answer call only at certain hours.

It is related that recently a good Methodist and a good Baptist clergyman got to talking to each other at a church social. "I dreamed that I was in heaven and saw no Baptists there," remarked the Methodist. "I inquired where they all were, and was told they hadn't arrived, but were coming by water." "I dreamed," replied the Baptist, "that I was in heaven and saw no Methodists there. Upon inquiring I was told they were all outside the wall on six months' probation."

A young lady stepped into a drug store to get a bath sponge. When she faced the clerk she got rattled and called for a sponge bath. The clerk faints.

A correspondent wants to know the origin of the phrase "he isn't in it." It was first used by an editor who died and went to heaven and looked around for the man who had taken his paper and read it three years and then refused to pay for it.

This is the way in which a Kansas editor poetically lays a bouquet at the feet of his best girl: "There is gladness in her gladness when she's glad—there is sadness in her sadness when she's sad—but the gladness of her gladness, and the sadness of her sadness, are as nothing to her madness when she's mad."

A Kansas paper, whose editor is doubtless an old bachelor or else a fellow whose wife henpecks him, gets off the following which at least has the merit of truthfulness. In mentioning the marriage of a local couple he says: "The young couple took the morning train for St. Louis, where they will spend more money in a few days than Willie can earn in three months. The groom gets a salary of $27 per month, which is about the allowance Anna has been used to for pin money. We wish for Willie's sake that the old saying that it takes no more to support two than one wasn't a lie."

Jeweler Commits Suicide.

Orla C. Harris, aged about 35 years, a jeweler, suicided at his place of business in Owingsville on April 13 by shooting himself through the head. There is no cause assigned for the act except possibly business troubles. Harris left a note asking his wife to forgive him and to kiss his children for him. His brother, Charles H. Harris, is an optician at Portsmouth, O., and his sister, Mrs. Clay Packet, is an optician at Ky.

Dismissed Without Prejudice.

On motion of plaintiff the $50,000 damage suit of Alonzo Walker, the Louisville stenographer, against W. S. Taylor and the officers of the Taylor soldiery, for false arrest and imprisonment, was dismissed without prejudice. Walker was arrested in 1900 by order of Taylor and his officers while attempting to serve a legal notice on Taylor. He was in the act of tacking the notice on the door of the Executive office, having been unable to get inside to personally serve it on Taylor, when he was arrested.

Montgomery Circuit Court is in session.

Judge Cooper is in the chair and Commonwealth Attorney, W. A. Young, is on duty.

Judge Cooper took up the morning instructing the grand jury and adjourned until this morning.

The many friends of Judge Cooper are glad to note his recovery to health. It would not be improper to say a word here in praise of a faithful servant. Judge Cooper, barring the short period of recent sickness, has missed fewer days of actual labor than any Judge on any Kentucky Circuit. His time has been given to the office to which the people elected him. Again he is an untiring worker. He found a lengthy docket when he entered the judgeship as the result of many continuances and cleaned it up speedily. His policy has been to give every litigant a fair but speedy trial. The rights of both plaintiffs and defendants have been considered and attorneys were not permitted to wear their cases threadbare by oft continuances. It is also a matter of fact that his decisions have found approval in the highest state courts as often as those of any other Kentucky Judge. So fearless in the discharge of his duty was he that a district of the most troublesome factions known to Kentucky history was assigned to him, and where once was riot and blood shed is as peaceful a county as there is in the State. We know he has been much criticized. All men are who fearlessly discharge their duty, but when his labors have ended as a public servant the one plaudit will be "well done."

PITY.

In adversity, because of short comings, cultivated jealousies or unexpected calamities, the man who can possess a fellow feeling for or can commiserate with, and does enter into, in all seriousness, the very life of another, is to be preferred to that good young ruler who had been upright in all the requirements of the perfect man. But he who would deceive himself by a mere "tend-like" of the most unreliable and is subject to the scorn of the just. There are men who play with words who unacquainted with their significance, and by their own utterances dropped their mask to expose the naked conglomerated mass of corruption, a component part of their miserable make up.

Pity, pure and sweet, has no place among the worldlings, for it is indeed a charming element in the pure character of the upright man. The selfish, the sinful wretch, the bigot are strangers to pity.

GROWLER.

There lives in every city classes who can not be pleased, and while they are without visible means of support they resolve themselves into an organization of inspectors. If a law has been enacted its far-reaching are looked after even if the imaginary must go a long way down the dim vistas, while the inspector remains stationary at the corner store or in the neighborhood blacksmith shop. His accomplishments can not be comprehended but he would satisfy the busy toiler by making him believe he is not being rightfully treated and a trap has been sprung for his ensnarement. A case comes up in court, neither judge nor jury he, yet it is his business to become both and though the law and evidence may have been justly applied yet it has not gone his way; and either plaintiff or defendant has been the unfortunate victim of circumstances, and it is his business to talk it to every passerby, and dissatisfy them if he can. Is he not a growler? Again every public enterprise is under his special supervision though the contract is another's. If the editor should say such nuisances live in Mt. Sterling, would it be starting? The same person is this who one day thinks everything is going to the bad because of little religious zeal, and the next day the pulpman man is insincere because he manifests so much earnestness for the souls of men. The same man who would believe we are on the road to the poorhouse for lack of rain a week past or that crops will never be put in because it has rained three successive days. It was the same fellow that was on the streets last summer when the waterworks crew did not do its work according to his own mature ideas, were doing unnecessary tearing up of the streets, would never get them in condition again. The same busy man is troubled to death now for fear the Water Company may meet with favor in the City Council; that the standpipe will not be made thirty feet higher; that the water may not be properly filtered; that the people may drink and that the deposit in which may create tadpoles in the stomach. Oh, the trouble of this important man! Had the city no houses with more than one story, no engines, no gas, no electric light, no telephone, no telegraph communication, had we a prosperous town without people, houses or any such things, then things would go to his liking and a happy man he would be.

Are you a growler?

AGITATOR.

There lives in every community an Agitator. Someone who is a disturber. No calm days where he goes. In fact, such a man though a misery to himself is a benefactor of no little worth, for he exposes the weak points to be fortified at leisure. If we only know how to use them, they guard and strengthen. Too common are such characters treated with contempt. True their business is invisible and their support comes from an unknown source and they are looked upon as loafers and dead beats—but how could the world run without Agitators?

Question Answered.

Please state number of barrels of corn a crib contains, inside measurement of crib being 14ft. long, 9ft. high and 5ft. wide and oblige, A Subscriber.
In the above crib there are 98,135 barrels. In the above crib are 14x 9x5=630 cu. ft. In 1 cu. ft. are 1728 cu. inches and in 630 cu. ft. are 1088640 cu. inches; and as there are 2218.192 cu. inches in 1 bushel we find by dividing 1088640 by 2218.192 we get 490,777. The bushels in the crib. As five bushels make a barrel, there are in the crib 98,155 barrels.

These lands have been pronounced by experts as being exceedingly valuable, as they consist of the best section, and, as to point of location, is the best, as it is located on both sides of the L. & N. This noted Presbyterian divine died at his home in Washington, D. C., on Saturday night at 9 o'clock, April 12, 1902. The immediate cause of death was inflammation of the brain.

Since his return to Washington some time ago he had been quite ill. He was surrounded by the members of his family. The burial will take place on Wednesday at Brooklyn, N. Y. CECIL WILKES is a striking looking stallion that attracts attention in any company. With his great size and lofty carriage he unites rare quality with extreme NATURAL speed that he imparts to his progeny, and which is the only kind that can be transmitted.

In pedigree he is the peer of any stallion living; the BEST BORN one ever in this section. For to generations his blood is of the choicest.

As an individual he is one of the best; his eyes, feet and legs cannot be improved upon; has a sensible head, high arched neck, well-laid shoulders, short back, long quarter, and is absolutely sound.

His first crop of foals (now yearlings) stamp him as a uniform sire of size, style and natural speed, which is the only sort that it pays to develop.

"Like produces like or the likeness of some ancestor." If you wish to raise a champion, then breed to the blood that has produced the champions of the past. In this respect there is no pedigree in registry that excels or in any section that equals that of Cecil Wilkes.

Will give a season ($20) for the best 1902 foal, to be shown at Mt. Sterling Street Fair, and $100 in seasons to the first foal of Cecil Wilkes to get a record of 2:30 trotting or 2:25 pacing.

FOR THIS SEASON ONLY HE WILL BE KEPT AT THE LOW FEE OF

$20 to Insure Live Foal.

Mares kept at Ten Cents per day.

Breckinridge Steps Down.

"I held some slight allegiance till this hour, but now my sword is my own," quoted Judge J. Breckinridge as he picked up his cane and walked jauntily out of the office of Attorney General, which he surrendered under a recent decision of the Appellate Court, to Mr. Clifton J. Pratt, the Republican contestant.

Judge Breckinridge was put in by the Contest Board after the Goebel campaign. Judge Pratt contested the office and won it under a decision of the Appellate Court, holding the action of the Contest Board void.

PLEASE THE GIRL.

The Only Safe Rule for Young Lovers to Follow.

"Talk about being in tight fixes," said Chippy. "I'm simply sewed up, I am. I might as well be hermetically sealed and dressed in a strait-jacket as an extra precaution. I haven't as much show as a single Boer surrounded by a regiment of British."

"What's the trouble?"
"It isn't trouble. That's a milk-and-water expression in this connection. I'd calamity and ruination. Fate would have been kinder had she hanged me or dropped me in the middle of the ocean without a life-preserver. Lobelia's father says that if I go to the war he will withdraw his consent to our marriage, and that if we disobey him he will never let us see a shilling of his money."

"That would be pretty tough, when you consider that he is a millionaire. But I would accede to his wishes in the matter."

"Oh, you would, would you? Better hear the whole case before passing judgment. Lobelia knows that I'm healthy as a rhinoceros and a trained athlete. She knows that I belong to a military organization that has been asked for volunteers, and that there's no good excuse for my remaining at home. She had tears in her eyes when she delivered her ultimatum, but she says that if I do not go with the boys she will declare the engagement off. Talk about being between the upper and nether millstone. What would you do, old man?"

"Please the girl. Don't you know anything about women? Go to the war, and she'll bring the old man to time if she has to create a revolutionary outbreak at home. If you want her, don't take any notice of his threats and blustering. He'll not be in it."—London Tit-Bits.

Browning's Wisdom.

Browning never passed a day without taking one or more long walks; indeed, his panacea for most ills was exercise, and the exercise he chiefly advocated was walking. He wrote: "I get as nearly angry as it is in me to become with people I love when they trifle with their health—that is their life—like children playing with a jewel over a bridge, jewels which, once in the water, how can we, the poor on-lookers, hope to recover? You don't know how absolutely well I am after my walking, not in the mountains merely, but on beveled Lido. Go there if only to stand and be blown about by the sea wind."—Mrs. Bronson's Recollections, in Century.

First Crop Report.

The first crop report of the season has been issued by Col. Nall, the State Agricultural Commissioner. It is made up from reports from eighty of the 119 counties in the State, and is as follows:

"This being the first report of the year, a brief review of the winter will be in place. After a dry fall and late sown crop of wheat the weather was dry and the grain in many sections of the State failed to germinate. December was cold and retarded growth greatly. The weather was generally good in January but not open enough to cause grain to grow. In February there was heavy sleet on the ground nearly all the month and no growth of grain. Much damage was done to timber and orchards, but the most hurt to grain was by retarding the growth when it was already behind the normal in development. The month of March was unfavorable except a few days. Altogether it has been a bad winter on wheat, and particularly that sown late. Reports indicate the soil in good working condition although the work of breaking is somewhat behind. The conditions and estimates as shown by summary of reports is as follows:

Corn—Prospect for acreage 100, with great security of good seed and backward season for breaking. Wheat—Generally looks badly, much of it late. Acreage 96; condition 71.

Rye—Acreage 98; condition 76. Tobacco—Prospective average 95 condition of plant beds 89. Fruit Prospect—Apples 84; peaches 49; other fruit, 85.

Negro Church is Declared a Nuisance.

Circuit Judge Cantrill dismissed the injunction granted during recess by Circuit Clerk Ford to restrain the City of Frankfort, through the Common Council, from interfering with and preventing the erection of a negro Baptist Church opposite the State Executive Mansion. In dismissing the injunction the court said that in his opinion the erection of a church at that point was a nuisance, and that a negro church where services began late at night and continued late was a nuisance in itself and should not be permitted in a quiet residence neighborhood.

Indicted for Complicity in Murder.

The record of the January term of the Franklin Circuit Court, which was made public at the opening of the April term on Monday last week, shows that Frank Cecil and Zach Steele, of Bell county, were indicted for alleged complicity in the Goebel murder conspiracy. It is said the men are fugitives. The records also show the indictment of H. C. Robinson, of Breathitt, the chief alibi witness in the Jim Howard case, on the charge of false swearing. Robertson is under bond. Judge Cantrill continued the conspiracy cases against Taylor Finley and John L. Powers, and the remainder of the cases were passed.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. ### Shame on General Smith.

Maj. Littleton W. T. Waller testified before the court-martial at Manila that Gen. Smith instructed him to kill and burn; said that the more he killed and burned the better pleased he would be; that it was no time to take prisoners, and that he was to make Samar a howling wilderness. Maj. Waller asked Gen. Smith to define the age limit for killing, and he replied "everything over ten." The Major repeated this order to Capt. Porter, saying: "We do not make war in that way on old men, women and children." Waller's testimony is confirmed by others.

No Extra Session of Legislature.

Gov. Beckham on Tuesday, in response to a petition from Democrats of Garrard county asking for a reconvening of the General Assembly for the purpose of passing a registration and a school book bill, declined to grant the request. He said in his letter of reply that the passage of a registration bill was of insufficient importance, and that it was clearly shown that the Senate would not pass the school book bill.

Saloon Man Fined 100 Dollars For Violation of Local Option Law.

Thomas S. Daugherty on April 3rd opened a saloon in Morehead, in open violation of a local option law which has existed since last June. County Judge R. Tussey had him arrested. At the time set for the trial, the court room was nearly filled with men, women and children. County Attorney Z. Taylor Young fought the case hard and secured a verdict from the jury of $100. When the verdict was read there was deafening applause from the audience, which lasted for several minutes.

Pickpocket Wounded.

Alleged Swindle.

Bitten By Rabid Horse.

Mr. J. Carroll Hamilton, of Flat Creek, has been bitten by what was thought by some to be a rabid horse, but Dr. Brashar, veterinary surgeon, is of the opinion that the horse was affected with a brain trouble, which ended his life. Mr. Hamilton had driven to the city and returned home late in the evening. Unhooking the horse he was slightly bitten on the shoulder, more of a pinch, but the second time it was more severe and Mr. Hamilton struck the animal. At this instant he observed the horse was mad and showed fight. Mr. Hamilton used the whip on the animal, but this enraged him the more. He caught a finger between his teeth, biting to the bone, and again another finger with similar results. Finally in a hard fight Mr. Hamilton succeeded in tying the animal to a hitch-post, and summoning a servant, the horse, after much difficulty, was stabled. The animal fell as from a fit, and would bite his own flesh, and the day following died.

Mr. Hamilton, fearing hydrophobia, three days following, accompanied by Mr. T. J. Bigstaff, went to Olympia and applied the mad-stone, which stuck two hours and a half. No serious results would be apprehended now, even if the horse had been rabid.

The stone is the property of J. P. Cofer, Olympia. He brought it from Halifax county, Va., and from many sections the unfortunate come to have this specific applied. The stone is about one inch by three-fourths of an inch, is of a yellowish cast, with veins of green. When it stuck Mr. Hamilton felt the drawing to the shoulder, and after it was removed Mr. Cofer placed it in a pan of warm water and it was heard to beat against the side of the vessel at regular intervals like the ticking of a watch and loud enough to be heard at least fifty feet away. Mr. Cofer values this stone very high; would not sell it at any price, and keeps it for the good it is to humanity. The rich and poor alike receive its benefits free of any charge.

For the benefit of the skeptical, Mr. Cofer recites the following: Last year five persons were bitten by a mad dog, four had applied the stone and the one who did not died from hydrophobia.

Mr. Cofer is truly free from selfishness, as is evidenced by his free gift to all men, rich and poor alike.

Library Notes.

Of the 12 trustees of Louisville's Public Library are Rev. E. L. Powell, of the Christian church; Bishop Dudley, of the Episcopal church, and Bennett H. Young, the lawyer.

The Board of Curators of Kentucky University have agreed to the transfer of a portion of Gratz Park in Lexington on which is to be erected the public library building made possible by the Carnegie donation. The south end of the park fronting on 2nd street and 250 feet deep is to be sold for $9,000. This price is much less than its real worth, but the location of such a library on the grounds of the University is great inducement for a concession.

Cyclones of Dust.

Cyclones of dust are disturbing the people and especially the business men of Lexington, and the cry is: Something must be done. The same conditions prevail in this city. Bring out Mr. Campbell or some other wagon and horse. That would evidently be more satisfactory and economic than to have a sufficient street force with hand sprinklers. Within a few weeks or months some arrangement may be made with the water company to furnish water.

The opening of the M. R. Hainline Friday and Saturday last was well attended. The room was papered with different patterns of up-to-date wall paper artistically arranged, and in the center of this room was another display of paper with potted plants placed so as to make a very pleasing effect.

Mr. Hainline is too well known to our people as a painter and decorator to need any recommendation from us. Miss Fisher Greene will have charge of the office and books of this firm, and knowing their ability to do high-class work, we predict for them a large business.

Circuit Court

convened on yesterday morning. The attendance was very slim. In instructing the jury Judge Cooper referred to the reported violations of the local option law to which reference has been made in the columns of our paper, as especially affecting the people of Menefee county. It now remains to be seen if the grand jury can detect any violators of law. The following compose the grand jury: Ed. McClure, Will Ed. Jones, Joseph McAllister, Peter Kelly, R. L. Tipton, Wm. Bridgeforth, Wm. Eubanks, Albert Bourne, Silas Stofor, Owen Morris, Mat. Oldham and John Peggs. After Messrs. Jones and Stofor had asked to be excused from acting as Foreman on the plea of incompetency, the court appointed A. Bourne to that position. After receiving the usual reports of officials court adjourned.

A Message of Hope.

King Richard was a prisoner firm and fast behind iron bars. There was little prospect of escape, and great danger of death at the hands of his jailers. One night he heard beneath his grated window a minstrel singing. He recognized the song and knew the voice of the singer, the minstrel Blondel. He knew too that there were those ready to aid him to regain his liberty. That song was to him a message of hope. It was the forerunner of liberty and new life.

There are thousands of men and women who are prisoners of disease. They are confined to their rooms by a detainer more forcible than bolts and bars. Hope of escape has been given up. They look for nothing but to have life mercilessly ended. They are victims of lung disease, and they see nothing before them but the fatal termination of consumption. To these prisoners there comes a message of hope; a message sincere and true from those who have been in like condition, but have found a way of escape and are enjoying to the full freedom from disease and a healthy, happy life.

"I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to a friend who saved my life by advising me to try your medicine," writes Mrs. Alice Cosby, of St. Ann's Ont. "In September, 1898, I had an attack of heart trouble, and began doctoring at once with my family physician, continuing for two months. I grew weaker all the time, so my husband took me to an old family doctor. He gave me good advice as to the care and comfort I should have in my home, and told my friends that I had consumption. He helped my lungs for awhile, but as I was getting weaker every day we went back to our family doctor, and I was under his care until March, then I was confined to my bed. Would have spells of perching five or six times a day, until my clothing was wet. Then the doctor told my husband he would like to have another physician called, as he had done all in his power—that there was nothing to build on. I began taking other medicines, and got so I was able to be about in the summer. In September, 1899, my old trouble came on again and I went to another doctor. He told my husband that consumption was my trouble, and my lungs, heart, liver, kidneys and bowels were in bad condition. I gave him a trial until March, 1900. At the same time stomach trouble and dropsy set in, and I was kept on broths and milk for three weeks. No pen can tell of my suffering. Sleep had forsaken me. I told my husband there was no comfort for me to remain with my family. I was willing to go to that land of rest. I was asked to give the fourth doctor a trial. He did not agree with the others. We were advised by a brother-in-law, who had been cured by Dr. Pierce's medicine some time ago, to give it a trial. I began to write to you, but it was three days before I could finish my letter. I received a kind reply advising a course of treatment, which I began at once. After taking the first bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (and also one of his 'Favorite Prescription') I began to improve in every way, and by the time I had taken six bottles in all, three of each, I began to work and have worked ever since. My weight is ten pounds more than ever before. At the time I wrote to you my friends said a month was the longest I could be on earth. If there should be any one wishing information regarding my case, I will be pleased to correspond if stamp be enclosed for reply."

If you are sick with lung trouble, obstinate cough, weak, emaciated and despairing, Mrs. Cosby brings you a message of hope. The means of cure she used should be the means of your cure also. Hers is not a solitary case. There are hundreds of men and women who were once in a like condition, and are now in the full enjoyment of a healthy, useful life, cured of disease by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If there were only one chance in a hundred of your cure it would be worth trying. But the records show that ninety-eight people out of every hundred who give "Golden Medical Discovery" a fair and faithful trial are perfectly and permanently cured. If you are sick can you afford not to try this medicine which has been the means of health to so many sufferers?

"I had great faith in your medicine," writes Mrs. A. W. Uth, of 209 E. Eighth Street, New York City. "Fourteen years ago I was cured with only one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' after I had been taken down by our doctor for five months. He told my mother that I had consumption and could not live any longer than spring, which would have been only a few months. The same day my attention was drawn to an advertisement of Dr. Pierce's medicine, and which described how I felt. We bought one bottle, and I took some of the medicine and felt so sick I thought I would die. Then I took smaller doses than at first and continued taking it. After one bottle was used I was cured. Had a few slight attacks of liver trouble since that, and found great relief every time I took your medicine. I am forty years of age now, am strong and healthy, through God's will and Dr. Pierce's medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures bronchitis, deep-seated and obstinate coughs, bleeding of the lungs, weakness, emaciation and conditions generally, which, if neglected or unskillfully treated, find a fatal termination in consumption.

Sick people, especially those suffering from chronic diseases, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free, and so obtain, without charge, the opinion of a specialist on their ailments. All correspondence strictly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Sometimes a dealer, tempted by the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines, will offer the customer a substitute as being "just as good" as the "Discovery." It is better for him because it pays better, but it is not as good for you, if you want the medicine that has cured others, and which you believe will cure you.

ITALIAN LAWMAKERS.

Noisy Scenes the Rule in Chief Legislative Body.

The Italian chamber of deputies is a noisy place, and the American visitors who attend its sessions think better of their house of representatives, says W. E. Curtis, in the Chicago Record-Herald. The disorder is worse than that which habitually occurs in other European parliaments, those of Austria and Hungary being even worse than that of Italy. The Italians are an excitable people, and introduce a great deal of gymnastics into their oratory and conversation. Hence an orator in the chamber of deputies who swings his arms and gyrates his body like a jumping jack is simply indulging in the national characteristic. If a member of the house of representatives at Washington should act that way the sergeant-at-arms would take him over to the Asylum of St. Elizabeth.

Italian statesmen lose their tempers easily. They are even more hot-headed than the Frenchmen, and therefore the sessions of the chamber are very interesting to people who like to see "scrap." When an orator of one political group makes an assertion that is offensive to the members of another group they do not hesitate to interrupt and contradict him, and frequently five or six members are on the floor gestulating wildly while the president of the chamber rings a little bell instead of pounding his desk with a mallet, like the speaker of our house at home.

There was a funny scene the other day. A certain socialist agitator from the city of Ravenna named Enrico Ferri made a speech on some subject concerning the working classes and was quite intemperate in some of his assertions—so much so that he was called to order repeatedly. He finally lost his temper and let go of very vigorous and insulting epithets at the distinguished colleagues who had opposed him. For this he was called to order, and as he refused to take his seat or even stop talking, the president of the chamber directed the chief bouncer to fire him out. This ceremony was performed in a most artistic manner. The sergeant-at-arms seized the honorable gentleman by the seat of his trousers with one hand and his coat collar with the other and hustled him down the main aisle so rapidly that the victim scarcely realized what was going on until he found himself in the vestibule, where he stamped and raged and shouted and behaved generally like an angry Italian.

As soon as the bouncer returned to the chamber and reported to the president that his orders had been executed, the president let called a spirit of reconciliation took possession. One of the conservatives who had been the target of Signor Ferri's assault arose and in a dignified and gentlemanly manner asked that all reference to the incident be omitted from the official report of the proceedings, and that the order of the president ejecting his antagonist be rescinded. The leaders of the socialist party received the proposition in the same spirit and were explaining to the president and all concerned that Signor Ferri did not intend to give offense or to violate the propriety of the chamber, when their eloquence was drowned by a crashing of glass, and fragments of a large ornamental door were flying in every direction. The disheveled hair and bloodshot eyes of Signor Ferri appeared through the hole that he had broken and he shouted in stentorian tones that the president of the parliament and all its members were lot of tyrants, despots, swindlers, thieves and hypocrites.

This dramatic performance terminated the proceedings. It was so comical that half the members of the chamber broke into roars of laughter, while Signor Ferri's friends, who were testifying to his gentle disposition and kindly sentiments, sat down in confusion.

A Letter Four Yards Long.

The letter of apology recently sent by the emperor of China to the German emperor is described as an exquisite work of art. It is painted on a single piece of yellow silk over four yards in length, and it is beautifully illuminated with dragons, flowers and arabesques embroidered in gold thread and silk of various colors. The work is so perfectly executed that at first sight the embroidery is mistaken for enamel. The latter is inclosed in a yellow silk envelope, which is also elaborately embroidered and fastened by ivory studs of the most ingenious character.
